J. T. WATERHOUSE

An inspector of food is needed in establishments where fresh goods are not always found. No one but a dealer in inferior stuff would object to it for the reason that men who make a point of buying the best goods at figures within the reach of the average bread-winner sell them so quickly that there is no danger of their spoiling.

We are making a specialty of groceries, good groceries which we buy and sell cheap. Care in the selection of them, no job lots left on the hands of jobbers, but good clean clear cut goods suitable for the best class of people, but which we sell at prices within the reach of every one. Our reputation for selling Dry Goods cheap extends from Nihoa to Hawaii; it will be no greater than the record we intend making for selling groceries cheap. Our stock comprises: Teas, Coffees, Syrups, Honey, Jellies, Cress & Blackwell's Jams, Sago, Tapioca, Saloon Bread, Fish in tins, Salt Pork in tins for family use, and the best varieties of cheese.

Our stock is new and new goods are received by every steamer.

HANGS HIMSELF FOR MONEY

PARISIANS WITNESS A WEIRD PERFORMANCE.

A Man is Suspended From a Scaffold Thirteen Days at the Concert Duclerc.

The Parisians are now delighting themselves with an entertainment which probably appeals to their taste more strongly than anything they have ever seen.

A man hanged himself by the neck for thirteen days at the concert Duclerc. The exhibition was so popular that the public and the manager insisted that the artist should renew the performance, and so he is now hanging himself up again.

The hanging man bears the name of Durand, and is a native of Marseilles. His performance appears principally due to a phenomenal strength of neck. There is little doubt that an ordinary man would be killed by it. An old fashioned gibbet, tastefully decorated with crape, was placed at the back of the stage of the concert hall. Durand was hanged by a stout rope, the strain being borne almost entirely by his jaws. The rope was arranged so as not to choke him.

Durand was raised high in the air, and there appeared to be no other means of support beyond the rope under his jaws. The regular performance of the concert went on as usual before him, and the singers and humorists found him a very useful and moral object on which to hang their gags. The fact that in French the word "dependre" means to "unhang," and "to depend," furnished a large number of witticisms.

The hanging was uninterrupted for thirteen days. Durand took drink and food while suspended from his gibbet. He was decidedly temperate both in eating and drinking. The spectators derived much pleasure and entertainment from drinking to his health, but he did not reciprocate. When Durand descended from his gibbet the attendance was enormous. The great event took place at midnight precisely. The preparations began amid a storm of cheers and playful comments. The spectators sang a refrain: "Dependra, dependra pas," to the air of "Les Lampieris."

At a signal from the manager a stepladder was brought and placed under Durand. He rested his feet on it with an evident expression of relief. The rope by which he had been hanging was removed by assistants and he stepped feebly down the ladder to the ground. He sank into an armchair and lay for a minute in a stupefied condition. Then he took from his valet a glass of liquor specially prepared for him and roused himself. Supported by the valet and the manager he walked among the spectators, bowing right and left. After that he disappeared through a door to take a much needed rest in bed.

Meanwhile, his assistants sold the rope by which he had hanged at auction, and obtained a considerable sum of money.

To one of the reporters who talked with him Durand said:

"I was sure of myself. I had tried the trick for eight days in my own room, and knew just what I could do."

"How do you feel?" asked the reporter.

"I am tired. It was a long stretch."

"Did you feel much pain?"

"Yes. During the first five days I had cramps in my stomach. Then I suffered but little except during the evening, and that was on account of the music and the heat."—New York Journal.

Rev. Mr. Peek will preach at both services of the Methodist church tomorrow.

HILLO'S NEW HOTEL.

It will be a Large and Very Comfortable Building.

The building of the new hotel has been decided on by the people at the head of the present Hilo Hotel Company. It will be begun in the immediate future. The hotel will be erected in the rear of the present structure. The land in front will be about fifty feet from the back of the present hotel.

The new edifice will be two stories high and contain twenty-four apartments besides parlor and other necessary appendices. The building will be in the shape of an L, the dining and culinary apartments running to the rear of the main building. Twelve cottages, six on either side of the hotel, will be erected and used in conjunction with the main building.

The grounds in front will be remodelled and enlarged and a beautiful garden will be kept. A band stand will also be erected on the grounds and used by the local bands in giving weekly concerts.

The new hotel will probably be finished by November or December of this year and will be ready for business by the new year. Upon its completion the present structure and other buildings will be removed.—Hilo Tribune.

Lieutenant Lasker's Mission.

Lieutenant Lasker of the Adams is in San Francisco on a peculiar mission, says The Call. His wife accompanies him, and, while he is apparently on "sick leave," it is known that he is on "recruiting service." Over a score of men have deserted, and the vessel is short handed. Some of the deserters came up on sailing ships, and the Aloha had two of them when she arrived in port a few days ago. The J. G. North had several, and the Alden Besse and Robert Lewers had one or two more. All in all, the crew of the Adams seems to be more than discontented, judging by latest accounts.

The Court Martial.

Captain Ziegler and Lieutenant Coyne were the principal witnesses at the sitting of the Good court martial last evening. Their testimony, as that of several other witnesses who were examined, related to the disappearance of the sight of the Austrian field piece and its recapture would be tiresome.

Feed the Nerves

Upon pure, rich blood, and you need not fear nervous prostrations. Nerves are weak when they are improperly and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is thus the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Hood's PILLS are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

There is a handsome piece of property, 70x100 feet, on the corner Prospect and Hackfeld streets. It is all fenced ready for building and water pipes are laid on. Enquire of H. M. Dow.

SOME ITEMS FROM OLAA

COFFEE PLANTERS LISTEN TO A TALK FROM JOSEPH MARSDEN.

Mr. Jenkins Reads a Paper on Coffee Planting in Mexico—Olau Baseball Club Formed.

A private letter to a member of the BULLETIN's staff from Olau district contains the following items of news:

A meeting of the Olau Coffee Association was held at the Mountain View House last Saturday evening for the purpose of introducing Hon. Joseph Marsden, Commissioner of Agriculture, to the members, and transacting other business. Eight new members were elected. Mr. Jenkins read an able paper on "Coffee Growing in Mexico," after which Mr. Marsden addressed the members and, in the language of the BULLETIN's informant, "gave us a good talk, making suggestions and answering questions." Mr. Marsden's talk was very much appreciated and the members would like to see him oftener.

Before adjourning a new constitution and by-laws were adopted. The association is in a flourishing condition. Its objects and aims are similar to those of the Hawaiian Planter's Association of this city, and it bids fair to become of equal importance.

After the business of the coffee planters was over, a meeting of the sporting element was called, which resulted in the organization of the Olau Baseball club. Mr. Abercrombie was elected manager and Mr. Supe captain. The club will practice every Sunday until they get in shape, when they propose to go down and properly do up the Hilo teams.

The weather has been exceptionally fine in the daytime with more or less rain at night.

Manson & Co. have completed the erection of a three-roomed cottage, 20x24, and have cleared off land enough for a garden at their new place on the side road at the 15 1/2 mile post. They will commence clearing for coffee planting next Monday. Messrs. Johnson and Thannum, who are in charge of the place, are surprising everyone by their energy and industry.

Mr. Rheinhardt has twenty five acres of three-year-old coffee on the adjoining place which is looking well. It takes several men all their time to keep the weeds down, however.

From all accounts the prospects of the coffee planters in the Olau district were never brighter than at present.

THE TRAMWAYS COMPANY.

No Change in the Charges on the Nuanu Street Line.

The recent decisions of the Supreme Court in the tramway cases have had no effect as yet and double fare was being collected on the Nuanu and Punahou lines as usual this morning. Passengers are still compelled to suffer the inconvenience and loss of time in changing cars at Queen and Fort streets.

At 11 o'clock this morning a BULLETIN reporter questioned one of the drivers at the last named locality and was told that no orders had been issued to the drivers and no system of transfers established as far as he knew. His orders were to collect five cents from each passenger on Fort street whether the passenger came down on the connecting car from Nuanu street or not. In answer to a question as to what he would do with a man who got off a Nuanu street car and boarded his car at Fort street and refused to pay an extra fare, his answer was short and sweet. It was "Fire him off."

OLD TRADITION ASSAILED.

Story of the Mosquito's Advent to Honolulu Ridiculed.

Mr. G. R. Agassiz, grandson of the profound student of natural history, Prof. Louis Agassiz, and son of Prof. Alexander Agassiz of Harvard, left on the Monowai for the States after a visit of several weeks, during which time he inspected the craters of Kilauea and Haleakala. Apropos of some emphatic remarks concerning the utter depravity of the Hawaiian mosquito, the visitor was told the story of the introduction of mosquitoes into these islands by a whaling vessel, whose water butts would have been declared contraband by Prof. Koebel. Mr. Agassiz smiled a quiet smile and delivered himself as follows: "That captain must have been a most remarkable man. I have just returned from a long trip through the South Seas and every group of islands has its legend of the whaler and mosquitoes. He must have had an incubator on board and made it his life work to disseminate the insects throughout the length and breadth of the Pacific."

WHARF AND WAREHOUSE.

Good Opportunity for a Capitalist to Turn Over Money.

Apropos of the weird wail in the Advertiser this morning relative to the need of better harbor facilities, lack of wharf frontage and so forth, the attention of those interested in shipping is called to the fact that a six years' lease of Emmes' wharf, one of the oldest and best wharves on the water front, is for sale. This piece of property is about 650 feet long by 200 feet wide and has a deep water frontage of about 1500 feet. It is located on Queen and Maunakea streets and is easy of access. It contains a warehouse, a boat builders' shop and two lime kilns. It is solidly built of rock and coral and can be put into first-class shape with little expense. The warehouse facilities need extension and anyone could easily get back the money laid out in one year, from warehouse charges.

TO SUCCEED THE MONOWAI.

Five New Steamers Ordered by the Union Steamship Company.

In an account of four new steamships to be procured by the Union Steamship Company, printed in a Sydney paper, the following occurs:

The well-known firm of Denny Bros., Dumbarton, received an order to build a fine new steamship for the San Francisco trade. Her dimensions are to be 350 ft. by 44 ft. by 34 ft. She is to have an ocean speed of 16 knots per hour. Her gross tonnage will be 4700 tons, and she will have superior accommodation for 250 saloon and 150 steerage passengers, and will be fitted with the electric light and all modern requirements. On her arrival the R. M. S. Monowai, now performing the service, will be replaced in the intercolonial trade.

Novel Musical Instrument.

The new piano at the Hawaiian News Co.'s is a wonderful affair. It is a sweet toned and strong instrument and beautifully cased. The wonderful part of it, however, lies in the great variety of instruments it can be made to imitate. There are four pedals, by the proper operation of which, with the feet, the piano becomes a guitar, mandolin, zither, banjo, harp, bagpipes, etc. It is said that an inventor generally has wheels in his head. If this be the case the fortunate Chicago individual who thought out all the mechanism connected with this piano must have carried around the fly wheel of a Corliss engine.
